Future plans for the town include a new shopping centre on the outskirts of San Pedro as well as a university.

Safe to say, San Pedro de Alcántara is no longer unknown to the town above the seafront, which was constructed back in 2013, to attract public away from the town centre. It has become an important part of the Coast, as well as being a hub for restaurants, pubs, bars, shops and hotels in the area. The local authorities are looking to make the evening area a vibrant destination.
